“ There are so many memories that I have of Joe over the years that it is hard to single out just one. It’s also very hard for me to convey the deep sorrow in my heart for someone who was like a “big brother” to me and who I went to for his wisdom and advice on important matters. You see Joe was that kind of person always willing to listen and help others whenever he could. He was very giving and generous toward those in need, not only to those he knew but those he did not know. He was genuinely a kindhearted man who loved life, family and friends. He was also very wise, smart, witty and loyal to those he loved. He would often say when he was getting ready to be serious... “There’s one thing I can see is this ...”. (Smile) Joe and I shared a lot together... he tried desperately to teach me how to bowl, but to no avail. He loved horse racing, going to the track, dancing and having fun! Joe you will be sorely missed by me, my sons (Owen and Andre’) and David who loved you also. Rest In Peace my dear “Brother” -in-law and thanks for the memories we’ve shared. I pray God’s abiding peace, comfort and love be with your family during this time of bereavement!

“ So many memories I really don’t know where to start. Mr.Smith was like a grandfather to me. He was also the oldest man I ever knew. I remember coming over your house when I was little I used to eat all the candy and looking at the grandfather clock. I was fascinated about that clock. He thought me so much I can only use it everyday so I can excel in life. Always sharing knowledge, wisdom with me. I’m gone miss hearing your voice, the talks we had I’ll never forget nothing you thought me. You showed me how dedication and hard work pay off if I work hard I’ll have nice things one day. He always told me to just listen to him when he’s talking. I remember the first time I put on some Stacy Adams it was to comfortable to be a dress shoe. He show me what a man was. Always dressing nice from the hat to the shoes. A well respected man in my eyes. He was always good too me. I will truly miss you until we meet again
