“ Dear Porter family and Woody,My sincerest apologies for the loss of Little Lexi Lou. I cannot even imagine the depth of your pain. First, Robin, next Dani, and now Alexis. I remember her cheering on Trey at many a basketball game. Her enthusiasm and love for life was infectious. She could make you smile with her loving hugs (and sometimes attitude). I will continue to send prayers for healing. God bless you Chase and Trey. I know you will miss your little sis immensely. Big hugs.Woody..., no words except, I am so sorry.Much love to the Porter family. May God hold you all in the palm of his hand as you walk this path.

“ Sometimes life is hard and it hurts. We don't understand what is happening or why the Lord would allow us to go through something that is so painful. Yet even in those times, we can be assured that the Lord loves us, that He has a plan for our lives, and that He will never, ever let us go. I'm praying for the family and asking the Lord to reassure your hearts of how very much He cares about all you are going through. May God Bless This Family! Love, Mrs. Vanessa G. Green
