“ Tony and I lived as brothers and roommates for a number of years. He had a heart of gold, buried within some decisions I could never understand. Our paths separated for many years and came together recently. We spent hours on the phone having rough, honest conversations, many laughs and we got to tell each other how much we loved and appreciated each other. I will always be grateful for the laughter, the struggles, lessons, and his daughter Jenea. Tony invited me to be her God Father, and it is the greatest honor of my life. Until we meet again, brother.
