“ I am praying GOD will give to you whatever is needed at this time. It's very hard for me to understand Charmain's passing because three Sundays ago we spent two hours laughing about events around track meets, past experiences, & just life in general. Now my heart & head won't let me face reality. We really really need GOD's power to see us through. I am Renetta's aunt.

“ When Charmain won the talent show intermission act by doing a rerun dance during our freshman orientation at Wilberforce University I didn't know that it would blossom into over 20 years of sisterhood, and friendship. I have several wonderful memories that we shared in college such as walking to CSU, the floor wars, water fights, and Charmain initiated The Black Winter Olympics! Another on my 21st birthday at Derby in the world's largest Electric Slide at Shawnee Park. I will always remember the epic trips to every classic, festival, and amusement park in any state with you and Shannon. This year Charmain and I discussed a lot of life situations. The conversation that sticks out the most is when we realized life was too short to hold on to foolishness. Then the next conversation was hearing the excitement about seeing Kim Burrell. One thing Charmain did do constantly was hold me accountable for right and wrong. We've shared plenty of laughs, road trips, happy celebrations, and even some tough times. I can say I learned the meaning of friendship. I'm definitely going to miss our talks and text messages. In closing, I thank you Vaughn Family for always being willing to take in people treat them as family as you did with me numerous times. Although we've lost her on earth I know heaven has gained an angel. Be Blessed

“ Its almost been a week and I am adjusting to the reality of you've been called home. Although my last memory is talking to you last Wednesday laughing about college and our past situations. Texting you Thursday about life...I am already missing our talks, texts, messages, the smile, laugh, cheering for the Steelers and giving me a clear of a definition of a great friend.
