“ I didn't actually know this young man but I did know of him by way of picking up his son at School when he picked his son up everyday after school. This young King was always respectful, friendly & kind. He would always be early picking his son up & I always noticed he would park in a different place sometimes driving his truck other times in his car. It was like a game that he played with his son. I would always give his son heads up where his Dad was parked. He would smile really big as he into the vehicle. The bond this young man had with his young son was a refreshing sight. They would both be smiling & laughing as I directed them on the way. I'm the traffic guard at the school . I'm going to miss seeing them interact with each other as Father & Son. It's so sad that his life was bought to an end because of a Senseless act of violence. My Heart goes out to his Mom, Father the children, his fiancée, siblings all his family & friends.

This one really hurt...Lisa was like my sister, when she carried you we both rode the same school bus home, . when you were born it was like you were chiseled directly,,,she kept you geared up, i would come down to see you and you always had that same facial expression as a child and a adult..My kids cherished you. i shed tears for you and the burks family..but mainly for your kids and wife...your spirit will live on forever..watch over your loved ones from afar...Southwick 4ever...rest easy king...
