“ We mourn the loss of our last elder of our 1200-1300 block of Cecil Avenue village, Elsie Poole (there are two others, but they live on Winnrose Way). We had a true village where all of s were loved, protected, nurtured and fed at every house on our long block. The Poole house is where Raymond Poole taught the boys learned how to properly wash a Cadillac, thus any car, and where Elsie Poole showed by example that true hospitality always comes with a smile and a warm heart.

Those of us who grew up on the block are better people because we are blessed to have seen what real Black adults looked and acted like. I will never forget Elsie's warm smile because I saw it every day. Thank you for blessing me with your sunshine and your loving family 🌸. Job well done 💜
