“ I am late to realize Jim's departure from our midst. Although I sadly miss him, I am warmed by memories of the days we ran around during lunch breaks at GE. We had many an adventure. But Jimmy and I also enjoyed a very special trip on our own to the Smoky Mountains where we climbed 6,500 ft Mt. LeConte and stayed overnight in one of the little cabins on top. The little lodge fed us a nice breakfast before we hiked back down the mountain. Jimmy drove us home in his sharp new beige Chevy pickup that he was so proud of.

“ Not long after I married his sister Virginia, Jimmy Dow got a part-time gate admissions job where I worked, at the Kentucky Fair & Exposition Center. One day at an office meeting for all the gate employees, Jimmy Dow asked the other workers, "Anybody here know a Don Smith? He works in the front office." Of course many of them did. By then, I'd been at the fairgrounds for 20 years. "He's my brother-in-law," Jimmy Dow proudly announced. Silence. Jimmy told me you could hear a pin drop in that room full of people. Years later, I kidded Jimmy, "You owe me $10,000 in back pay and interest. Because I never got another raise after you made your big announcement!" He laughed. I laughed. We had another beer. He was a cool brother-in-law to have.
