“ I have so many memories of Lil. She was not only a trusted ally to work with but friend. She was the first woman I could share DIY projects with. She taught me how to be a single Mom. One of the smartest people, not only "book" smart but "common sense"! So generous, she gave of herself even shared her travels. The adventures of "Lil & Cuz". I think of her as I drink my coffee in the cup she gifted me with from California. She had such great times. She didn't waste time while "enjoying life". I know I envied her. It was a good day when she brought a pot of greens or mac and cheese to work. Lil had the gift to make things, places and people better. I didn't meet all of her children but felt I knew of you through her. She was a proud Mom. I feel blessed that Lil was in my life and will treasure my memories. I hope your memories bring you comfort,
Sincerely, Susie Apsey
