“ I worked with Russell at KiZAN. At the time, he had just finished a coding bootcamp, and I was a year or two into my career. His desk was right next to mine, and we hit it off immediately. We bonded over video games, TV shows, and Marvel movies.

I'll never forget the time we were talking about a PC game at work. Russell decided to download it—only for our networking guy to come over about 20 minutes later, frantically trying to figure out who had just taken down the entire network. We had a good laugh about that one.

Russell and I only worked together for a few years at KiZAN, but we kept in touch here and there afterward. When I got hired at eBlu, he texted me, ecstatic that we'd be working together again.

Somewhere along the way, we lost touch, and I deeply regret that now because Russell was truly a great guy.

Russell, thank you for the laughs and for making those days at KiZAN more fun. I'll always think of you whenever a new Marvel movie comes out.

“ Family and friends - It was truly a blessing to consider Russell one of my best friends for well over 30 years of our lives. I will always cherish the memories of the friendship we had that spanned multiple decades. Although time and distance is always a challenge, I’m glad we intentionally found opportunities to ‘catch up’ whenever possible. It was always good to talk to him or see him, and we always had a great time. ‘Big Russ’, my life long friend and brother - your presence and memory will forever remain in all of our hearts and spirits. Rest well Brother Russ - until we meet again.
