“ Aunt Sadora was a beautiful woman. She was quiet and allowed her light to shine as an educator. Aunt Sadora left us quietly and not much was said. My fondest memory is the visit to Alabama for family reunion. While driving on the clay road, her car began to slide into the ditch. Aunt Sadora abandoned the car and decided she was done driving in Alabama. That's the day I most remember. Lastly, the opportunity to see her at Uncle Franks homegoing and witness Her strength during that difficult time. I'm recognizing that you were here and you made a difference in the lives of countless others. I want to say farewell and take your rest.
