“ I love to tell the story.....When I attended Miss Verna’s 95th birthday, she grabbed my skirt and wanted to tell me about growing up in a family of ten children. I really wanted to sit down and talk but more people were behind me that were waiting to greet her, so I promised to return and talk to her about her life. When I returned to Sheena’s home with my pen and paper, she was prepared to talk. It surprised me that she remembered so much about her family and our church. After we talked she asked if I was writing a book about her which gave me the idea to interview other seniors in my life. Now that I am a senior I think about the gifts and lessons that she shared with her family, friends and church. When my mother passed away in 2007, Miss Verna was there to comfort me. I will always keep her in my heart. Love you dearly.
